

IACCT Participant Scorecard Pilot – FINAL DRAFT 7/7/13

About the Data in this Scorecard

- For the following reasons, the data may be skewed.
 - Coordinators with fewer participants can track each one more thoroughly.
 - Coordinators who are not the only REACH users on their campus can benefit from a more developed engagement profile of an individual because additional tracking is implemented by others
 - The scoring may vary from campus to campus.

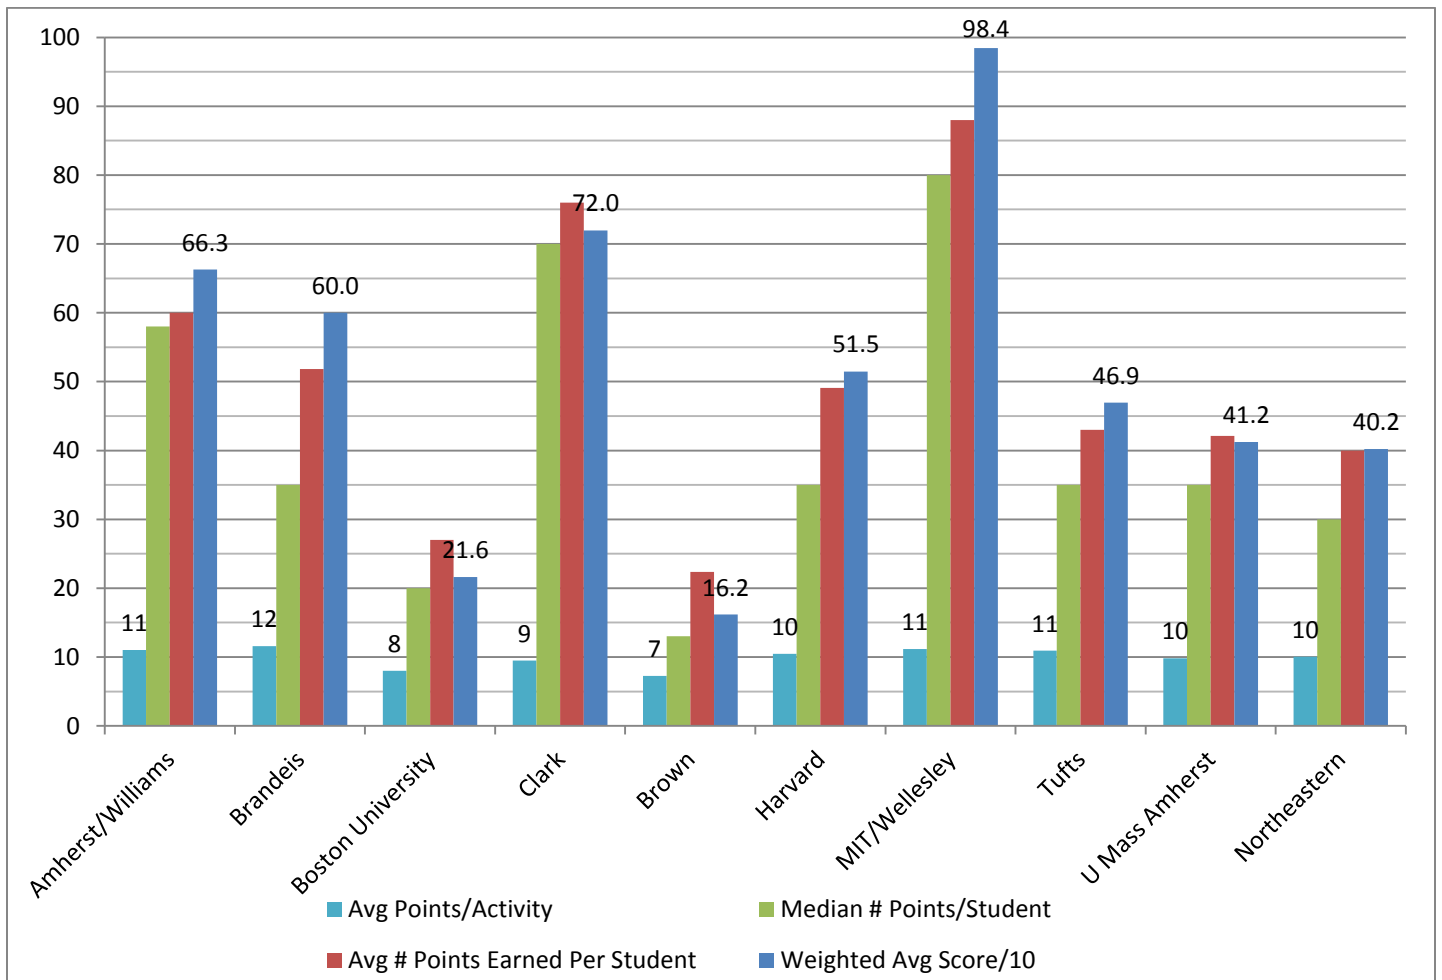

The Participant Scorecard – What we can learn from it?

- On the Individual Level: Using the Weighted Engagement Score we can see the depth of the engagement of each individual. The higher the score, the deeper the person was engaged. A high score can be the result of 1) very frequent attendance at ‘low score’ events or 2) by involvement in ‘high score’ events such as ASB or formal classes or a combination of both 1 & 2.
 - Usage:
 - Help Identify Potential Leaders: More highly engaged participants can be quickly identified and moved into leadership positions where they can inspire others to higher engagement.
 - Help Identify Participants to Be More Deeply Engaged: Those with lower scores can be targeted for additional engagement efforts.
 - Expectations Over Time: We would expect to see each individual’s Weighted Engagement Score grow over time as they hopefully become more involved over time.
- On the Campus Level: The participant also scorecard gives us a view of the activity happening on each campus that will augment the findings of the separate Campus Scorecard.
 - The Average Points Per Activity gives us an indication about the level of events/interactions that occurred on a campus (and that were recorded by the coordinator for that individual.)
 - Usage: Gauge the depth of engagement activities and events implemented
 - Expectations Over Time: We would hope to see an increasingly higher average point per activity over time, indicating an increasingly robust engagement effort that goes beyond ‘minimum commitment’ events.
 - The overall Weighted Average Score for a campus can be discerned by for each campus.
 - Usage:
 - Compare a campus WAS over time to ensure that the campus is meeting or surpassing its previous engagement achievements.
 - Compare the WAS between campuses to identify which may need additional support – in programming or tracking*
 - Expectations Over Time: We would expect to see each campus’ WAS grow over time as participants become more involved over time.
